

Overload Policy for May Term

Steve Griffith, Vice President and Dean for Academic Affairs 3/25/10

Full-time faculty members who teach in May Term will normally do so as part of their normal course load and within the expectations of their full-time contract. A faculty member seeking to be paid to teach in May Term as a paid overload must first receive the approval of their department chair, and then seek approval of the Academic Dean. The course will not be listed in the May Term catalog until approvals from the department chair and the Academic Dean have been received.
